General Questions

Q: When will Invoicing & Payments with Autobooks be available for NCR DI Business Banking?

A: On March 7, 2023, NCR will enable Invoicing & Payments with Autobooks for all financial institutions that has a Data Platform Agreement on file and has not opted out of the service. Invoicing & Payments will be considered a standard feature for DI Business Banking.

Q: Will my financial institution be able to test Invoicing & Payments with Autobooks before it is available to small business customers?

A: Yes, once Invoicing & Payments with Autobooks is enabled for your institution on March 7, 2023, you will have two weeks to test, add VIP customers, or provide select customers with a pilot opportunity. Customers added during this time will need to be manually added by your institution. On March 22, 2023 NCR DI Business Banking will automatically enable Invoicing & Payment for business banking customers. Customers that you wish to remove from access to the service (prohibited businesses, at risk customers, etc.) can be manually removed in Admin Platform.

Q: Will my institution need to submit a ticket or request for mass enablement of customers?

A: No, you will not need to submit a request for the enablement. NCR will make the changes for your institution for FREE.

Q: Can my institution opt out of mass enrollment for business customers?

A: As part of our partnership with Autobooks, to bring the service to your institution at no cost plus a revenue share of any accounting upgrade fees, Invoicing & Payments must be available to your business customers. Adding the service for your customer does not automatically enroll them in the service. Customers can be manually removed from access to the service within Admin Platform if your institution chooses.

Q: What are the costs for Invoicing and Payments to my institution?

A: NCR has created a partnership with Autobooks that allows us to bring the Invoicing & Payment service to your institution at no cost. Your institution will have the opportunity to earn a revenue share of 33% of the upgraded accounting fee to the business and 10% of the interchange after processing fees.

Q: How will my institution receive the revenue share from customer upgrades and card processing?

A: Your revenue share will be credited to your NCR invoice on a quarterly basis. You can choose to use the credit on your monthly invoice or for any project fees.

Q: Will changes made on the financial institutions core be sent to Autobooks?

A: No, any changes to addresses, phone number, or email addresses will need to be completed in the Autobooks profile for the business.

Q: Can the Terms and Conditions be altered that is presented by Autobooks?

A: No, the end user agreement is between Autobooks and the business. Autobooks will assume all risk associated with the payments.

Q: Can my financial institution charge an additional fee for the service?

A: No, in our agreement that allows NCR to share in the subscription fee and card processing with your institution, additional fees for invoicing & payments are prohibited.

Q: Can we automatically enroll all business customers in Autobooks and/or the upgraded accounting service?

A: No, since the customer agreement is with the business customer and Autobooks, your institution cannot automatically enroll a business in the service.

Q: Once Invoicing & Payments has been enabled for my institution, will we have to manually add it to all new customers?

A: No, Invoicing & Payments will default as enable on your current segments/groups.

Q: How will Autobooks know who to contact at my financial institution?

A: Each institution will need to complete an operational form for Autobooks. This form can be used for changes within your organization as well.

Q: Can my financial institution monitor the connectivity for Autobooks?

A: Yes, you are encouraged to subscribe to real-time and historical data on Autobooks connectivity at <http://status.autobooks.co/>

Go To Market

Q: If a customer has an issue with a payment or within Autobooks, how can we assist our customer?

A: Autobooks will service all customer issues and questions. This includes questions about payments, access, or modifications to their access. The customer can contact Autobooks with the following:

Phone: (866) 617-3122 Monday – Friday 9AM-6PM EST

Email: support@autobooks.co

Q: What if my customer has a question about invoicing & payments outside Autobooks normal business hours?

A: Autobooks had an extensive help library online with articles and teaching videos. Customers can also reach out by email to support@autobooks.co and a support person will contact them. SLA for customer contact is 1 business day.

Q: Will my financial institution have access to reports for customers using Autobooks?

A: Yes, once your financial institution is enabled for Autobooks, admin access will be granted to your institution to Autobooks Hub. The Hub will provide reports on enrollment, payments, and access to approve businesses that could not be auto approved in Autobooks.

Q: How are users approved for Autobooks?

A: Most businesses will be approved within minutes of completing the application with Autobooks. If the customer is not able to provide specific information or is not automatically approved, your institution will receive a notice and a report will be available within the Autobooks Hub. Autobooks will work with your institution to clarify any information and approve the customer for invoicing & payments.

Q: Are customers only approved for the service during business hours?

A: No, Autobooks can approve customers though their automated service 24/7.
